Blitz & Bananas!

Step back in time to Bromley, 1940, where little Bessie Smiley and her sisters are inspired to do 'war work' and secretly set about helping people who have lost everything during the Blitz.

However, their 'Secret Operation' brings 4-year old Bessie face to face with the scariest man in town, the 'Grumpy old Grandad', played by TV actor, Brian Murphy.

Bessie's wartime adventure, based on true stories, leads to big decisions about evacuees, Prisoners of War and even...a banana!

Blitz & Bananas is a feature-length drama based on wartime memories from people in the Bromley area, created by local filmmaker, reminiscence worker and family tree researcher, Anna Littler.

Filmed in a street near you!

Bickley, Bromley, Chislehurst, Crofton, Farnborough, Keston, Knockholt, Orpington, Petts Wood, Shortlands

"Blitz and Bananas is an involving and enjoyable film. It is forged out of passion - not just for the subject matter, but by the large cast and crew who give it their all. A great achievement!"

"A brilliant combination of humour and sensitivity which appeals to all ages...and resulting in a renewed sense of gratitude that my parents and I survived the war!" Hilary

"It was a great film, very thought provoking, engaging, amusing and tragic by turns." Ann

"What a lovely film...and I had my 15 year old son with me who loved it too!" Jacky

N.B. The film links with the national curriculum (Years 3 or 6) but please note it does contain verbal references to war and death.
